WARRANTS ISSUED FOR SEWER SLACKERS

The city commission has issued warrants for the arrest of twenty citizens of Ada who have persistently refused or neglected to connect with the sewers as required by city ordinance. Mayor Kitchens told the News yesterday that they regretted to have to go into court any citizen of the town, but the city health authorities have asked that the penalty for refusal to make sewer connections be applied and they are going to assess the penalty wherever necessary. The state health officers have also asked that the sewers be connected. The fine for not making the connection is any sum up to one hundred dollars.

You are paying the government tax on luxuries so readily and uncomplainingly that it deserves special mention. Just why the framers of this law should deem PATENT MEDICINES luxuries we are at loss to understand. There are some very worthy and very NECESSARY patents and proprietary medicines—and the government says that we MUST COLLECT THIS TAX FROM THE CONSUMER.

NORMAL SCHOOL HEADS FIRED

PRESIDENTS GRAVES AND FAULKNER OUT; GABLE SCHEDULED TO GO TODAY.

(From The Oklahoman)
After a secret session lasting all day, the state board of education last night requested the resignation of A. S. Faulkner, president of Northwestern State Normal school at Alva and J. W. Graves, president of Central State normal at Edmond.

"Failure" Alleged.
"Failure to show proper growth" in their institutions was the reason given the presidents for their dismissals.

Both men were appointed by former Governor Williams. Graves declared last night that the reason given by Superintendent Wilson and the state board for ousting the presidents is wrong, at least in his case, and cited as but one instance of the efficiency of his regime that he had 2,000 pupils enrolled for the summer course at Edmond.

G. W. Gable, president of Northwestern normal at Tahlequah, is due to get his walking papers this morning.

Action Expected.
Graves had been expecting such action by the state board since Governor Robertson became a controlling factor.

Faulkner and Graves were told to appear before the state board yesterday but declared last night that all they did was "cool their heels" in the outer room of the capitol while the board was in session.

They were summoned to a room in the Skirvin last night, they said, and told of the decision of the board.

It is understood there is no opposition to President J. M. Gordon of Ada or President Etheridge of Weatherford. President Brooks of Durant resigned some time ago.

While no official information has been given out to that effect, it is generally understood that Superintendent Bennett of Hugo will head the Durant Normal. He was offered the position of high school inspector by Superintendent R. H. Wilson some days ago, but it is thought he will prefer the normal school work. The salaries of the presidents were advanced to $3,600 a year and a home furnished free.

AUSTRIAN DELEGATION EXPECTED WEDNESDAY

By the Associated Press.
PARIS, May 10.—The Austrian peace delegation will leave Vienna Monday and reach Paris probably Wednesday, the French foreign office was advised today. Previous advices had indicated that the Austrian delegation was expected to reach Paris Friday.

SOPHOMORE CLASS MASQUERADE PARTY

The Sophomore class of the Ada High School gave a very pretty masquerade party in the auditorium of the high school Friday night when their sponsor was Miss Willa Harbert.

Pink and green class colors were carried out in the auditorium decorations.

The girls were transfigured into graceful Japanese dancers, baby girls with lots of ruffles, Martha Washingtons with their hoop skirts and silver hair, Indian girls with red faces and long, straight tresses, and vaudeville girls furnished music with their tambourines, while the gold-dust twins performed with brooms. The boys in this party, for the most part, were farmers, some black faces, one American soldier and one wild west cowboy.

AIRPLANES RESUME ATLANTIC FLIGHT

By the Associated Press.

HALIFAX, N. S., May 10.—Two of the three giant American seaplanes attempting a trans-Atlantic flight took to the air today on the second leg of their cruise from Rockaway Beach, N. Y., to Trepassey, N. F., where they expect to start next week for Portugal with a stop at the Azores Islands. The N. C. 1 set out at 8:44 and was followed at 9:07 by the N. C. 3. The start was made under an almost cloudless sky with a gentle north wind cutting the course.

90 DIVISION DUE THIS MONTH

DEMobilIZATION PASSES 2,000,000 MARK AND AHEAD OF SCHEDULE.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, May 10.—Army demobilization passed the two million mark, Chief of Staff General March announced today and the number of troops returned from France now exceeds one million. The movement during April totaled 303,178. As an example of the degree to which demobilization has been expedited, March announced that the Ninetieth division, Texas and Oklahoma troops, would embark this month, instead of second week in June, according to the old schedule.

OKLAHOMA OVER THE TOP AGAIN

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., May 10.—(Special.) —"Oklahoma has oversubscribed its quota in the Victory Liberty Loan, as all Oklahomans believed it would do," said N. R. Graham, state director, this morning. "The oversubscription reported at this time is slight, but will doubtless be increased with final reports. There are, however, a number of counties not to be named at this time which have not yet met their quotas, for the honor and good name of these communities another chance will be given to make good and the state committee will assist the lagging ones in meeting their full obligations to the end that by next Wednesday at the latest the quota in every Oklahoma county will have been oversubscribed. Reports from banks will be accepted as late as May 20 which will give those which are yet behind an opportunity to report for their customers."

A. H. S. BANQUET A GREAT EVENT

One of the most beautiful as well as enjoyable banquets ever given by the High school students, was the one held at the Harris last evening at nine o'clock.

The guests were greeted at the head of the stairway by Misses Mary Marshall and Mae Burdick and introduced by Misses Ola Burke and Gladys Gilstrap to the receiving line, which consisted of Mr. Arnold Mallory, president of the class, Misses Eunice McNew, vice-president, and Lettie Rock, the secretary-treasurer, Mr. Walters, toastmaster for the evening, and the other members of the Junior class.

After a few minutes spent in animated conversation, the young ladies were conducted by the young gentlemen to the banquet room where covers were laid for forty-six.

The tables arranged in the form of a T were gorgeous with calla lilies, pink and white carnations, garlands of roses and potted begonias, the color scheme being carried out in the class colors, pink, white and green. The favors for the girls were tiny pots of pink begonias and the boys, white carnations.

A banquet consisting of fruit cocktail, sliced tomatoes, olives and spring radishes, salted nuts, roast young turkey with dressing, June peas, potatoes in cream, Parker House rolls, pimiento-cucumber salad, neapolitan ice cream cake.

At the close of the banquet, Mr. L. T. Walters, in his customary genial, yet dignified manner, introduced the speakers of the evening, as follows:

"Our Guests"—Roy McKeown.
"Our Hosts"—Lawrence Mooney.
"Ada High"—Mary Marshall.
"The School Spirit"—Jewel Jordan.

"The Faculty"—Arnold Mallory.
"The Students"—Mrs. Cutler.
"The School Board"—Earl Fentem.

"In Their Defense"—Supt. J. E. Hickman.
"Those Who Aspire"—Eunice McNew.

"Our Next Step"—Guy Orr.
At the conclusion of the toasts a paraphrase of Hamlet's Soliloquy, written by Welborn Hope, was effectively read by Miss Gladys Gilstrap, after which the guests made their devoirs, declaring they had had the happiest time of their lives.

Jerry Patton's little son, who was run over several days ago by a truck, is very much improved today and his condition promises a favorable recovery.

GERMANS ARE INDIGNANT

VOGELER'S HOWL GOES UP AGAINST TERMS OF PEACE TREATY.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, via Copenhagen, May 10.—The Germans are stunned by the peace terms presented by the allies and Germany's reply to the terms which will be presented at Versailles Wednesday will be a proposal "for a peace of right on a basis of lasting peace for all nations," according to a proclamation to the German people issued by President Ebert today.

Asserting that the allies continued the war by means of the blockade for six months after Germany had signed the armistice conditions and observed them faithfully, basing their hopes all the while on the promise of the allies contained in the note of November 8 that peace would on the basis of President Wilson's fourteen points, the proclamation recites that the allies "have now given us instead peace terms which are in contradiction to the given promise. It is unbearable for the German people and impracticable even if we put forth all possible effort to comply with the terms set forth."

The proclamation closes with an appeal to the Germans to stand together knowing no parties, "and to preserve with the government mutual trust in the path of duty in the belief of the triumph of right and reason."

The German press is a unit in condemning the terms and most of the papers vehemently demand that the government refuse to sign the treaty.

Delegates May Return.

PARIS, May 10.—German peace plenipotentiaries are at perfect liberty to return to Berlin to consult their government if they desire to do so, it is reported in conference circles, it made, would not mean breaking off of negotiations. The Germans, it is said, enjoy entire freedom of movement and diplomatic immunity.

Nothing From Hun Delegates.

PARIS, May 10.—President Wilson expressed the belief today that nothing would be heard from the German plenipotentiaries for about a week. Neither he nor other members of the American delegation have heard anything regarding the published report that the German delegates were preparing to leave Versailles. The German delegation worked until 4 o'clock this morning preparing counter propositions. No communications have as yet been sent to the chiefs of the allied missions.

NEW BRICK BUILDING FOR EAST MAIN

Howard and Zorn have begun work on a large brick on East Main which will be occupied by L. Rock's garage. Its dimensions will be 100x140 feet and one story. The builders expect to make it thoroughly modern in every detail.

COTTON WAREHOUSE TO BE USED FOR REVIVAL

The News was in error yesterday in its article stating that the big Ham-Ramsey revival would be held in the Ada compress building. The building to be used is the Ada cotton warehouse at the corner of Renne and East Ninth. This is even a better place than the compress building and much more centrally located.

When the big revival opens in July it is expected that its influence will reach every part of Pontotoc county. Mr. Ham's plan is to hold day time meetings in Stone-wall, Stratford, Roff, Francis and Allen, and he will come so near to the hearts of the people that they will come many miles to hear his sermons.

THE WAY TO WELLVILLE

Many a man has made a fortune by watching the want ad columns of his local daily paper. It is here that the buyer gets in touch with the seller immediately, and vice versa. The News "want ad" column offers you more service for the amount of money invested than any other method you can employ. If you are skeptical on this point give it a trial and be convinced. One cent per word per day is the rate. Would you ask it for less?

REPORT ON OKLA. CROP CONDITIONS

By J. E. Woodworth, Field Agent
U. S. Dept. Agriculture,
Guthrie, Okla., May 8, 1919.

The crop report for Oklahoma as issued by the Bureau of Crop Estimates of the United States Department of Agriculture, through its field agent for Oklahoma, indicates a most wonderful crop of wheat in prospect on May 1. The acreage seeded last fall was estimated on December 1 at 3,590,000, of which 1 per cent has been abandoned, pastured out, or plowed up, leaving 3,554,000 acres for harvest this summer. The condition of the crop is reported at 102 per cent forecasting a production for the state of approximately 53,631,000 bushels. This is the heaviest acreage ever sown, probably the lightest abandonment and probably the highest condition on this date for any wheat crop produced in Oklahoma. The general growth of the crop has been almost abnormal during the past month with generally favorable weather conditions, a good supply the Price of Ice Down.

We Are Trying to Hold

Fuel alone cost us 5c per 100 lbs. more to manufacture ice than it did last year. Labor, and all material, has advanced over last year's costs some items of supplies in steel and repair parts are quadrupled.

In order to properly check our business we will have only one price to everybody. Drivers are not authorized to make rates.

of moisture at two periods, a minimum amount of hail, and no insect damage of consequence. Fear has been expressed in some sections of the southwest that wheat is probably too rank. Some rust has developed but it is too early to tell whether this will have any effect on the grain.

The acreage of rye remaining to be harvested is reported at 9,760 acres, which, with a condition of 100 per cent on May 1 forecasts a crop, under average conditions, of approximately 132,000 bushels. Much the same conditions for rye prevail as for wheat and the crop is quite generally heading on this date.

The acreage of tame hay of all varieties is reported at 112 per cent compared with last year, indicating that 631,700 acres will be harvested and the acreage of prairie hay to be harvested is 100 per cent of that harvested last year or 540,000 acres. Alfalfa, which constitutes the larger portion of "tame hay" in Oklahoma, is in excellent condition; some crops have been cut in southern sections. Conditions have been favorable for seeding alfalfa this spring and the acreage has been increased some. Alfalfa, as a whole, withstood the severe 1918 drought remarkably well. The Bureau reports the condition of all hay at 96 per cent. The quantity of last year's hay remaining on farms is 2 per cent showing the farm stocks to be extremely low, due to the shortage of feed crops and hay last year together with high prices.

The farmers are generally well up with their work as indicated by the Bureau which reports that 88 per cent of plowing and 71 per cent of spring sowing and planting has been completed by May 1. The greater portion of corn planting has been completed and cotton planting will be more general during the early part of May. Ground is being rapidly prepared for feed crops. Pastures are reported at 88 per cent condition, somewhat low for the reason that the severe drought of the past few years has damaged the grass and pastures are very weedy.

The number of horses and mules which died of disease per thousand is 12; cattle from disease, per thousand 15; from exposure 16; sheep from disease, per thousand 5; from exposure 6; lambs from both disease and exposure 16; and swine of all ages from disease 31. The general condition of live stock is unusually good considering the shortage of feed and the fact that most stock had to be roughed through the winter. The condition of horses is reported at 93 per cent; cattle 92 per cent; sheep 94 per cent, and swine 92 per cent.

DADDY'S EVENING FAIRY TALE By MARY GRAHAM BONNER

NUTTY CHUM'S BREAKFAST.

"Hello, what is your name?" asked Chippy Chippy, the squirrel.

"Yes, what is your name?" asked another squirrel named Bright Eyes.

"You'd like to know my name, eh?" asked the third squirrel, in a very cross, scolding voice.

"We would," said Chippy Chippy.

"We would," said Bright Eyes.

"How do you know that you are going to know it?" asked the third squirrel.

"We don't," said Chippy Chippy.

"This is the only solid emulsion made, and so palatable that it is eaten with a spoon like ice cream. A truly wonderful medicine for weak, sickly children."

"Of course it all depends on that," said the third squirrel proudly and haughtily, as he sat up on his haunches and looked first at Chippy Chippy and then at Bright Eyes.

"Well, do tell us," said Chippy Chippy, who was very curious.

Bright Eyes had more pride than Chippy Chippy. They were both curious, but Chippy Chippy would swallow his pride many a time when his curiosity got the better of him, whereas Bright Eyes wouldn't.

"If he doesn't want to tell us his name, and if he is going to make such a fuss about it," said Bright Eyes, "I don't care to know it."

Chippy Chippy looked a little bit disappointed, and Bright Eyes continued: "I'm just as good as any squirrel, and I don't like to see such silly pride and such crossness and such superior manners for no reason at all."

Bright Eyes began to run across a branch and Chippy Chippy followed, though he looked back at the third squirrel to see what he was going to do.

"Come back, friends," called the third squirrel. "I won't act so proudly any more. But you know I come from the city. I'm not a country squirrel."

"Now, squirrel," said Bright Eyes, "do you wish us to talk with you or not?"

"Oh, yes," said the third squirrel, "I do."

"Then," said Bright Eyes severely, "I do not wish to hear any of this silly talk. You are no better than we are because you came from the city. I suppose you think because you lived in one of those parks that you are better than we are who have the great woods for our homes? Well, you are not better. It doesn't make a scrap of a difference where a creature is born or where a creature has been living. Everything depends on the creature himself."

During this long lecture Chippy Chippy was looking at Bright Eyes with amazement and wonder. Bright Eyes was so brave and daring!

"Why," continued Bright Eyes, "if you were so proud about being in the city why did you come to the country? Ha, ha, that is a give-away. That shows you are the kind of a squirrel you are. If you were so fond of it there why did you come to the great woods?"

"I can answer my own question. You wanted to be in the beautiful country, but you wanted to put on airs about having been in the city. You wanted to make use of everything we had here and yet act as though you were a little better than we were. Now, young squirrel, you can't do that with us. We're not going to put up with it."

"I was very foolish," said the third squirrel, "pray forgive me. I see that you are right. And let us be friends. I'll share my breakfast with you."

"My name is Nutty Chum. I was named Nutty because I was so fond of nuts as a regular squirrel should be, and I was called Chum because every one liked me. I tried to be foolish here, but I just had a silly turn. Please forgive me."

"You will see that my name of Chum shows that I am very friendly and sociable and pleasant. And the name of Nutty shows that I am a good, every-day sort of squirrel."

"That's right," said Bright Eyes, "you were foolish at first, and that was why I talked to you, so as to knock it out of you before it was too late and you had such habits stuck to you, and every one hated you. You're a good sort and we will all be friends."

So Chippy Chippy, Bright Eyes and Nutty Chum became the best of friends and Nutty Chum promised them and there, at his breakfast party, that he would never be foolish and proud again.

BOLSHEVISM AND HOW TO MEET IT

There are over ten millions of unnaturalized aliens in this country. There are over eight millions, native and foreign born, who are totally illiterate. From 58 to 72 per cent of the employees of the great basic industries are foreign-born and twenty-five per cent of them cannot read or write, even in their own language.

In addition to this large percentage of illiteracy, there is also an alarmingly large per centage of intelligent native and foreign-born workmen of ordinary education, who have become actively adherent to the teachings of the red-flag Socialists, the I. W. W., and especially the Lenin-Trotsky lunacy—Bolshevism.

Bolshevism, contrary to general belief, has even affected soldiers and sailors returned from the war. The New York World of April 7, 1919, in a first page article in reference to a disturbance at the headquarters of the Soldiers, Sailors and Marines' Protective Association, said: "At a recent meeting, held under the auspices of the Labor Temple, 14th street and Second avenue, 800 sailors and soldiers cheered Bolshevism."

The above described classes of workmen made up a field which the propagandists of all forms of radicalism have been most assiduously cultivating during the past four years, finally bringing about a condition of labor unrest that has become a menace, not only to law and order and business interests, but to the larger percentage of wage-earners themselves.

A rational way to meet this situation is by counter propaganda that will inspire wage-earners to suppress those who seek to create labor disturbances, industrial anarchy and even actual political revolution; that will destroy the influence of the radicals over labor by exposing to all wage-earners in a convincing way how they are being exploited and manipulated by those who make a profession of creating class hatred, labor unrest and of keeping constantly aflame a spirit of antagonism to the employer.

This can be accomplished through three mediums of reaching the minds of wage-earners:

1. The Motion Picture.
2. The Bill Board.
3. The Press.

Influence are now at work to bring about the production of propaganda motion pictures, both in dramatic and educational form, that will aid in attaining the result desired.

ON MOTHER'S DAY TO MAKE APPEAL TO JOIN CHURCH.

"For years now we have been in the habit of observing a Sunday in May as a tribute to our mothers or to the memory of our mothers," said Dr. W. B. Beauchamp, Director of the Centenary campaign of the Methodist Episcopal church, South.

"We have observed this Mother's Day chiefly by the gift of flowers to our living mothers or by doing some act for others in memory of them."

"Mother's Day this year will be observed Sunday, May 11, and we ministers of the Southern Methodist church are going to ask another kind of tribute from the men and women who attend the services of our church. On that day we shall ask that all men and women not actively at work in its behalf, will, in memory of, or as a tribute to their Christian mothers, become actively affiliated with the church.

"We believe such a tribute from a son or a daughter will be the greatest tribute they can pay to a Christian mother. For every Christian mother has, over the cradle of her babies, asked God to lead them into lives of usefulness for their fellowmen. And when men and women dedicate their lives to help the cause of humanity, through the Christian agency of the church, they answer in a concrete way the dreams that their mothers had for them."

The Centenary Campaign of the Methodist Church calls to its own to stand by. And there is not one quitter in the ranks of the church. The church is expecting the newspaper editors affiliated with it particularly to promote the campaign in their territory.

Bulletin.
Bulletin of Women's Missionary Society, First Methodist Church, Ada, Oklahoma.

The Missionary Society met in the church Monday for its regular business meeting. Mrs. Orr, president, in charge. The Bible lesson was very instructive. Our prayer circle of intercessory prayer has been organized for special at the business meeting. We are praying that every member of the women's Missionary Society in the Durant district will pray daily for divine guidance that we may become real stewards of our time, our talents, and pay to the Lord's treasury our tithe.

Mrs. Truitt, chairman of the ticket committee, desires to thank all ladies that helped sell tickets for the banquet. Women paid the bills while the brethren served.

It Doesn't Cost Much to Wire Your Home!

For years you have probably longed to have electricity in your home and denied yourself and family the comforts and pleasures of its use because you thought it a luxury—an expensive household convenience which you could do without.

But electricity is no longer a luxury. It is a necessity, proved by the convenience of such household comforts as the electric toaster, flatiron, coffee percolator, table grill, electric cleaner and other appliances which make easier the many duties of the busy housewife.

The cost of installing electricity is soon repaid in the economy that is yours in the use of the many convenient electrical appliances.

So don't wish any longer for electricity in your home—HAVE IT. The time to act in the matter is RIGHT NOW.

"A. SPLENDID TONIC"

Says Hixson Lady Who, On Doctor's Advice, Took Cardui And Is Now Well.

Hixson, Tenn.—"About 10 years ago I was..." says Mrs. J. B. Gadd, of this place. "I suffered with a pain in my left side, could not sleep at night with this pain, always in the left side..."

My doctor told me to use Cardui. I took one bottle, which helped me and after my baby came, I was stronger and better, but the pain was still there.

I at first let it go, but began to get weak and in a run-down condition, so I decided to try some more Cardui, which I did.

This last Cardui which I took made me much better, in fact, cured me. It has been a number of years, still I have no return of this trouble.

I feel it was Cardui that cured me, and I recommend it as a splendid female tonic."

Don't allow yourself to become weak and run-down from womanly troubles. Take Cardui. It should surely help you, as it has so many thousands of other women in the past 40 years. Headache, backache, sideache, nervousness, sleeplessness, tired-out feel... are all signs of womanly trouble. Other women get relief by taking Cardui. Why not you? All druggists.

OPENINGS FOR NON-COMMISSIONED OFFICERS

Non-commissioned officers are wanted to be detailed as assistants to the professors of military science and tactics at various educational institutions throughout the country, where reserve officer's training units are established.

These non-commissioned officers should be preferably of the grade sergeant if possible, with not less than one year's service, of excellent character, soldierly appearance, sober, dependable and capable instructors in the basic training of the soldier. They should have at least a grammar school education and have some clerical ability.

To take advantage of this opportunity it will be necessary to see Colonel Smith or Colonel Tyndall at the headquarters Oklahoma Recruiting District, Oklahoma City, Oklahoma and be examined.

Special enlistments for these details are authorized and the adjutant general's office in co-operation with the committee of education and special training will approve each individual case that is referred to it in case a vacancy exists at the college where the applicant desires assignment.

Many commissioned officers have been detailed to various educational institutions throughout the country and these college positions are in great demand and eagerly prized. This is the first time that opportunity has been given to non-commissioned officers for the same line of work.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and for years it was supposed to be incurable. Doctors prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Catarrh is a local disease, greatly influenced by constitutional conditions and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is a constitutional remedy, is taken internally and acts through the blood on the Mucous Surfaces of the System. One Hundred Dollars reward is offered for any case that Hall's Catarrh Cure fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

SCRAPS OF HUMOR

His Unleft Legacy.

"Did your friend Joyner leave many personal belongings?" inquired Mr. Asker.

"Many is right," responded Mr. Tebbun. "He belonged to half a dozen lodges, the Red Cross, a zomave company, a drum corps, a church, a singing society and a suit pressing club."

The Garrulous Patient.

"You needn't tell me any more of your symptoms. I know what's the matter with you."

"But, doc, let me get 'em out of my system."

"That's why you are here, my friend. You can't get those symptoms out of your system by talking about them."

Any Old Job.

A convivialist plying the intriguing streets of Boston with a full cargo of liquor on board observed a legend which ran, "Murderer Wanted," and taking time by the forelock, entered the station house and said to the sergeant:

"I'll take that job."—Cartoons Magazine.

No Classical Aspirations.

"Your speech was a classic," said the admiring friend.

"Too bad!" exclaimed Senator Sorghum; "but I did my best. I was particularly anxious to keep it from being neatly bound and stowed away in a library for future generations. I wanted the public to get it right now while it's hot."

"You sometimes smoke cigarettes?" "Yes," replied Miss Cayenne. "I am not different from other women. I do not hesitate to sacrifice my personal comfort when it comes to keeping up appearances."

IN THE WRONG PLACE.

"Do you think our paper has enough nonsense in it?" "Certainly, the editorials are full of it."

Work Already Done.

It isn't the job we intend to do. Or the labor we've just begun. That puts us right on the ledger sheet. It's the work we really have done.

Realistic Touch.

"How was the performance?" "A faulty heating system spoiled it." "In what way?" "Just as the tragedian said: 'Hark! Methinks I hear the beat of distant drums; a radiator in the back of the house began to thump.'"

A Real One.

The optimistic man, wearing for the first time his new spring suit, hat and tan oxfords, fell into an adult size mud puddle.

"Oh, well," he murmured with true optimism. "I am glad the mud was so nice and soft."

The Reason.

"Your father must have been in an unusual good humor when he gave you a motor cycle."

"Oh, I seized the cyclological moment to ask for it."

Not Yearning.

"Don't you wish we could get back to the simple ways of old times?" "No," answered the comfortable heavyweight; "not if I have to ride a bicycle again."

Deep Sea Stuff.

Dear Star—I have read a good deal about that beautiful hair these mermaids have. Can you tell me any more about it?—Adeoid.

Answer—Nope. Adde, except to surmise that it is wavy.

Practice Makes Perfect.

She (after his proposal)—Did you ever say anything like this to a girl before?

He—Heavens! You don't suppose it could be done like that the first time, do you?

Naturally.

"I know a man who always gives cut rates for his work."

"Who is he?"

"The barber."

Too Late.

"I would like to speak to your father for a few minutes if he is at liberty."

"He isn't. Ma just interned him."

PHILIP'S TRIUMPH

By HELEN A. PARKER.

Philip Rogers raised his head from poring over plane geometry. The boys were dragging their long double-runner sleds past his house. He could hear their gay shouts, the crunching of the hard snow under their feet and the girls' laughter as they came up behind. He started to get up, then sat down again. Then a flash of light shone through the window. It was the searchlight Charley Loomis had at the head of his sled, and the admiration of all the other boys. Charley's helio of invitation followed as he got opposite the house. That was too much for Philip, and this time he closed his book with a bang and got up.

"Lesson all finished?" asked his mother, who was sewing at the other side of the table.

"Well, not exactly, only partly," Philip answered; "but, mother, they are having such fun! and I haven't been out this whole week."

He ran to the window and looked out. There they were, a long line of them, with Charley Loomis ahead. Yes—and that was Edith Jones with him, for he could see the bright curls peeping from behind her tan o'shanter. She was president of Philip's class in high school and far the most popular girl in town. Philip and she had been friends since they were children and lived opposite one another, but since Philip's father died his mother had to move into a smaller house.

Then Charley Loomis came to town and entered the high school soon after. He had everything he wanted and asked Edith everywhere. She, liking a good time, readily accepted. She did not forget Philip, however, although he thought she had, and in her heart of hearts preferred him to Charley in spite of the candy and invitations the latter gave her.

But Philip did not know this, and it was a doleful face that met his mother's.

She looked grave as she said: "You know how much your success in mathematics will count towards your getting the place in Mr. Grant's store, and we so need the money! But do as you please, my son," she added. I feel as badly as you do, even worse, I think, to have you miss so much of the fun." And she gave him a loving look.

Philip's sled, though an old one, was by no means one of the slowest, and he was the best steerer of them all. It was a glorious night to be out, and he longed to be with them. Then he thought of his mother's hard work, how she had patched and mended his clothes and made over her own. And now she was sacrificing everything to keep him through the last year of high school that he might obtain the position which was promised, if his standing proved good. He gave a long sigh, but his mother's face settled it. Turning resolutely away from the window he sat down again to study.

He no longer listened to his schoolmates' voices, but worked away with all his might. A week more and it would be time for the midyear examinations. They were reviewing now, and in geometry Professor Strong had sent in an original problem they were to be responsible for. Miss Stephens was very anxious they should solve it, but no one had so far.

"It's come, mother, at last," he said; "here it is, proof and all!" and he gave a glad shout as he showed her the finished work.

Meanwhile, after Charley's unsuccessful summons, the boys waited a few minutes, thinking Philip might change his mind. Then he gave it up and went on.

"What a baby Philip is," said Charley.

"Well, anyway, I guess he'll be glad when examination time comes, especially if that problem is one of the questions," said Ralph Wood. "And you know, whoever gets marked highest is to be valedictorian, and Professor Strong cares more for our geometry than anything."

"Oh, Professor Strong and his old geometry!" said Charley. "I wouldn't lose this coasting for all the original problems going, would you, Edith?"

Edith did not answer. She had always respected Philip's devotion to his mother. Now she admired him very much for giving up an evening's pleasure to study.

When the day arrived for the examination Philip was triumphant. The first question was the original problem. He soon solved it and then answered the rest. He finished before the others and handed his paper to Miss Stephens.

A day or two after she gave him his mark, which was 95 per cent. "You had a perfectly splendid paper," she said, and your mark is the best ever attained by anyone in the class, and Professor Strong says you are to be valedictorian in June."

Just then Edith came up, "I want to congratulate you, Philip," she said in her sweetest manner. "And mother wants you to have supper at our house tonight—all the class is coming in the evening and we are going to coast awhile and then make candy and practice the new class song. The party is in your honor, so be sure and come," she added.

When Philip told his mother, she gave him a happy smile. "I am pleased with your high mark," she said, "but most of all because you conquered yourself in sacrificing pleasure for work—that was your best triumph." (Copyright, 1919, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

DESERTS HUSBAND; HE GETS VIOLENT

Two charges were filed in District court today against Porter Crooks, of Tyrola, one for carrying a weapon, the other for pointing a pistol at a person.

Porter Crooks, of Tyrola, and Maria Winters, aged 14, of Ada, were married at Coalgate about one month ago. Because of a disagreement Mrs. Crooks left her husband, since which time she has been at the home of her father in Ada.

Last night Mrs. Crooks, in company with another young lady, attended a dance at Byng. In returning to Ada they were held up on the road by Mr. Crooks, who, it is claimed, pointed a pistol at his wife and threatened to kill her if she did not agree to live with him. The case was reported to the sheriff this morning and two charges were filed for his arrest.

The penalty for carrying a weapon is a fine of $25 to $50, and for pointing a pistol at another is three months in jail.

The NEW EDISON will play all makes of Disc Records if you wish it, but only two or three of our large number of owners use the records, for they say they like the EDISON RE-CREATIONS best. The Christian Endeavor Society will meet at 7:30. These meetings are always interesting and helpful. It is a good place for a young man or woman to spend an hour on Sunday evening. Another friendly contest is being carried on at the present time.

Evening church worship will begin at 8:30 o'clock. Milo J. Smith, of Indianapolis, a minister, will be present and will preach on the theme: "Love for a Cause." At the evening service the minister always preaches a short sermon to the boys and girls, using some object to enforce and illustrate the thought. Parents are asked to bring their boys and girls to hear these messages. Miss Clarice Cartwright will sing.

The Ladies' Missionary Auxiliary will meet Monday afternoon at 2:30 at the church. Mrs. Marvin Brown will give a reading at this meeting. The "J. of J." will meet Monday evening at 5 o'clock. New members are being constantly added to this organization.

LATTA SCHOOL ENDS

SUCCESSFUL TERM

The Latta school, one mile south of the cement plant, closed for the term last night. At the close of the school a very interesting program was given. It is said that not one-half the people who attended the closing exercises could get inside the house.

A feature of the closing exercises of the school was the masterly address by County Superintendent A. Floyd. His talk was along educational lines generally with special emphasis placed on rural education. He stated that the people in the country districts were only spending one-tenth as much money on each pupil as the people in the cities and towns, and he urged the people of Latta to get busy and make their school second to none in either town or country. Superintendent Floyd will be at the closing exercises at Tyrola tonight where he will deliver a similar address.

The teachers of the Latta school for the term just closed are Prof. A. R. Selph and Miss Viola Baumgartner.

Alas, Poor Yorick! The Women
Simply Go Wild About This Chicago Man.

Chicago—Nature, which moves in mysterious ways her wonders to perform, as we gleaned from the third reader, performed so wondrously well in the case of Yorick Owen Henry as to render him irresistible with members of the other sex.

Alas, poor Yorick! Until yesterday the custodian of two adoring wives, singing in happy chorus, "Blessed Be the Tie That Binds," he found himself last night in a cell.

"I can't help it," Henry admitted. "What's a man to do? They go wild about me."

After Henry's curses on his fatal beauty had somewhat abated the reporter learned from the desk sergeant that he was charged with larceny, bigamy, and forgery; also that sometimes his name is R. J. Planer, Fred Lamonte, or again Adolph Henry.

Last year he was employed by the Stearns & White company, wholesale chemists. He met Miss Rose Ludwig, a stenographer, married her, and conducted her to his home, where she met the other Mrs. Henry, also the Henrys' little Henry.

The two Mrs. Henrys lived in content and comity—Mrs. Henry No. 1 even accompanying Mr. Henry and Mrs. Henry No. 2 on the honeymoon trip to Peoria. About this time the Stearns & White company reported to the police the disappearance of $700 worth of chemicals. They accused Henry.

Everything would have been all right at that, because Henry was living under the name of Lamonte, but he decided to return to Chicago. He rented rooms at 10 West Grand avenue and installed his establishment. And then the two wives quarreled. And one notified the police.

GIRL SAVES HER GARTER

Police Patrol Driver Is Given the Scare of His Life in the Rescue.

Oakland, Cal.—A garter that slipped at the wrong moment nearly wrecked Oakland's $6,000 patrol wagon!

The wagon was answering a hurry call. At Twelfth street and Broadway, in the center of the downtown district, a girl gowned in silk and furs started across the street. Half way over she halted, turned pale and made a wild clutch for her knee.

Pedestrians shouted a warning, but the girl was oblivious. She stooped over and began to fumble. The patrol wagon opened its siren, executed a fancy curve, missed the girl by an inch, careened past a telephone pole by a narrow margin and righted again.

Then only did the girl straighten up, bring something blue into view and continue modestly on her way. She got the garter, but the patrol wagon driver got the scare of his life.

Ventriloquist Admits It's a True Story

Los Angeles, Cal.—"Please let me down easy, mister," came a deep voice, apparently from the casket, as Andrew J. Wilson, a negro employed by a Long Beach transfer company, was engaged with another workman in unloading at a freight station there a coffin containing a body that had been shipped to Long Beach for burial from a town in the middle West.

Wilson was just letting his end of the box down, with about two feet to go. He let it fall the two feet with a bang, and with a flying start he sprinted down the street.

Police Sergeant Clyde Allen of Long Beach, who was standing near the scene with a ventriloquist friend, vouches for the story.

IMMENSE EARNINGS SHOWN

Forty Per Cent of Known Oil Supply Is Exhausted

WASHINGTON, March 2.—Forty per cent of the total known oil supply in the United States exclusive of oil shale deposits in three states, has been exhausted, according to estimates transmitted by Secretary Lane to the senate commerce committee in compliance with a resolution presented by Senator Ransdall of Louisiana, and made public Sunday by the committee.

Up to last January 1, Mr. Lane said, a total of 4,598,000,000 barrels had been produced, while the known available oil resources, not counting the shale deposits, in the ground and in the field storage, were estimated at 6,740,000,000 barrels. Distillation of shale deposits in Colorado, Utah and Wyoming, however, would produce seventy billion barrels of oil, the secretary said.

In response to the same resolution, Secretary Daniels informed the committee that 4,000,000 barrels of fuel oil would be required by the navy in 1919, while 31,209,000 barrels would be needed by the shipping board. Most of the oil for the navy department, he said, comes from the mid-continent field in Kansas, Oklahoma and Northern Texas, while some is obtained from the gulf coast field.

Millions In Sight

On Our Holdings in the Richest
Oil Fields in the World

You know that oil is the greatest fortune-maker the world has ever seen. Hundreds of men, starting with small capital, have become millionaires through investments in oil. Thousands more have gained wealth by sharing in the riches of this wonderful oil industry. The weakness of oil investments in the past has been the RISK of losing, instead of winning, because drilling for oil is very expensive and often oil companies have been ruined by striking dry holes instead of producing wells. This company has taken all the gamble out of the oil business and offers you a certainty of the tremendous profits without any of the risk of loss.

WE HAVE 25,000,000 BARRELS OF OIL

IN Western Colorado there are immense bodies of shale, containing oil in large amounts. By crushing and heating this shale, the oil in it is changed into vapor. The vapor is then condensed by cold, and the crude oil, together with many valuable by-products is distilled and later refined. This process is not an experiment. It has been in use for many years in other countries and the companies that have been using it have paid large and steady dividends. But it is only recently that the great deposits of oil shale in the United States have been known. We leased the very choicest tract of oil shale land at the start. This is the fourth Oklahoma company to enter this profitable business, and consequently can promise the largest returns for those who join us immediately. We have a tract of 320 acres of rich land on which is more than twenty-five million barrels of oil, in the shale on the surface. We do not yet know what riches may lie deeper, but the amount of the surface gives this company

ASSETS OF $225.00 FOR EVERY DOLLAR YOU INVEST YOU CANNOT LOSE—BIG PROFITS SURE—INVEST NOW!

THIS opportunity is the most wonderful chance that will ever come to you. We have the oil right in sight; easy transportation; efficient, proven methods of distilling and refining; splendid management; cash markets. The profits run better than $5 a barrel without including the profits from all the by-products. Later on the sale of these by-products should more than double the earnings.

SETTLED PRODUCTION FOR OUR REFINERY

You will find that the great weakness of the refining business under ordinary circumstances is the fact that crude oil for refining is often hard to buy, and that many times refineries have to shut down entirely many months in the year. WE HAVE SETTLED PRODUCTION. The earnings of this business will depend only on the size of the plant which we build. This will be constantly increased, so that while profits the first year may be only 100 per cent, there is really no limit to their size, as our equipment is enlarged.

GUARANTEE

We are stating the FACTS about this Company in black and white. We guarantee the truth and accuracy of every statement we make. We have the reports of the United States Government to show the certainty of success. We will demonstrate and prove these things to you at any time upon request. Write or call

A SURE WINNING CHANCE OF A LIFETIME

If you act at once, while the stock is still at par. Just as soon as our plant is completed and earnings are rolling in, the stock may jump to five, ten, or perhaps twenty times par. It will undoubtedly mean a fortune for every one who buys stock now and shares in the profits from the start. This stock should all be sold and off the market within ten days. Don't let the quick thinkers take it all ahead of you and leave you wishing you had acted quick after the Company is making thousands of dollars for the stockholders.

THINK QUICK—ACT QUICK—BUY NOW

Write the Company a check or send the money for just as many shares as you can buy. Remember, the capital is small and there will be only a few of us to divide up the profits with. This is your chance. The men who have made a thorough investigation of the Company have been getting in with every dollar they could raise or borrow. The way subscriptions are coming in already, the offer will have to be withdrawn mighty soon. This advertisement will likely never appear again after today. Don't wait a minute longer. Send in every dollar you can for your share of a waiting fortune.

FAMOUS PEACE TREATIES

By H. IRVING KING

(Copyright, 1919, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

THE HOLY ALLIANCE, 1815.

Emperor Alexander of Russia Was Preparing an Alliance, the Plan of Which Was Concealed on the Most Altruistic Lines.

While the "prospective destinies of Europe" were being settled at the Congress of Vienna amid conflicting interests in 1814-15—while, in short, the peace delegates of the European nations were endeavoring to straighten matters out after the Napoleonic wars, just as the delegates at the Quai d'Orsay are now assembled to straighten matters out as a conclusion to the recent war, an idealist in the person of Emperor Alexander of Russia was preparing an alliance the plan of which was concealed on the most altruistic lines and which, he fondly hoped, would bring eternal peace to the world. It was not only to be a league to enforce peace between the nations, but was to lay down certain principles which should insure peace, and prosperity within the borders of the world. This was the Holy Alliance.

Emperor Alexander at that time was under the influence of a mystic. It seems that there was an "occult party" about the Russian throne then, just as there was in the recent days of the late Emperor Nicholas. Emperor Alexander declared that there should be an alliance of nations founded upon high principles that those which had heretofore guided the councils of princes and labored assiduously to obtain converts to his plan. By a proclamation issued at St. Petersburg dated "on the day of the birth of our Savior, 15 December, 1815" the czar ordered read in all the churches a "convention concluded at Paris on the 25th of September, 1815, between the emperors of Russia and Austria and the king of Prussia."

Object in Forming League.

In it these three sovereigns solemnly declared that they had "no other object in forming the league except to publish to the whole world the fact that in the administration of their respective governments, as well as in their relations with foreign states," they would take for their sole guidance the precepts of the Christian religion, namely, justice, charity and peace. By its terms the signatory nations were to keep peace with each other and generally see that peace was not disturbed throughout the world.

All the European nations subsequently signed the covenant except England. The restored king of France did not withhold his consent. In England, however, the Holy Alliance was looked upon with suspicion from the first, and though there is no doubt of the sincerity of Emperor Alexander it was feared that it might serve as a cloak for tyranny and territorial aggrandizement. The terms of the alliance were so drawn as to be highly altruistic in the enunciation of principles but somewhat hazy with regard to their application. Metternich, the Austrian premier, approved the alliance with a few cynical remarks. Wellington said England would demand "something more definite."

What had been feared by the English statesmen happened. The Holy Alliance was evoked by interested sovereigns to cover acts of tyranny and aggression. Imperial historians agree that the treaty of the Holy Alliance itself was afterwards unjustly blamed for the acts committed in its name. At Verona in 1822 the Holy Alliance determined upon interference in Spain to suppress the popular uprising there and France, as "mandatory," carried out that resolution.

Enunciation of Monroe Doctrine.
At this congress of the Holy Alliance at Verona the proposition was made and agitated, but not brought to a vote, that the armies of the alliance should cross the seas and effect a conquest of the revolted American colonies of Spain. When the news of this reached England, Canning, British secretary of foreign affairs, wrote to Mr. Rush, American minister to England. Mr. Rush wrote to President Monroe and the result was the enunciation of the Monroe doctrine.

The idea of the Holy Alliance, as Emperor Alexander planned it, was sublime. But it worked in a diametrically opposite manner from what he intended. Perhaps its provisions were too vaguely drawn—perhaps the world was not ready for it. After the congress of Verona it began to "peter out," and ceased to exist in 1830.

BARRELS OF OIL FOUND IN ROCKS

A PROCESS THAT PROMISES TO REVOLUTIONIZE THE OIL INDUSTRY SOON.

In another part of the News will be found today a page advertisement of the Number Four Shale Oil Co. of Oklahoma City. The men promoting the company's business in this locality have had a demonstration going on in the front offices of the News building for the past two days and hundreds of visitors have visited the place and witnessed, with astonishment, the process of extracting the finest quality of crude oil from what appears to be solid rock but which, in fact, is an oil shale of the richest quality and found in great quantities in Colorado, Utah, Wyoming, Nevada and other western and northwestern states.

Much speculation has been indulged in within the past few years as to whether or not our natural oil supply would last, but whether it does or not the discovery of oil in this shale, and the discovery of a process by which it can be profitably extracted, is going to revolutionize the oil industry to a great extent, and will certainly make sure that the supply will never be in danger of becoming exhausted.

Not only that but this discovery eliminates, to a great extent, the gambling element entering into the oil industry, especially as concerns prospecting, as the new method reduces the industry to one of manufacture rather than one of chance discovery.

For many years travelers going west through the Grand River Valley of Colorado and into the great Uinta Basin of eastern Utah have looked from the windows of their Pullman cars on the far stretching miles and miles of the Book Cliff mountain; little realizing that in these and adjoining mountains, plainly exposed to view, lay the greatest oil reservoir in the country—the oil shales of Colorado, Utah, Wyoming and Nevada.

Rocks That Burn Freely.
These shales, it is true, were known to yield oil. Campers and hunters in building fires against pieces of rock, had been surprised to find that they ignited—that they contained oil. This fact was looked upon, however, as only another of the natural curiosities of the great west, and investigation showed that little or no attention was paid to it because of the seemingly inexhaustible pools of crude petroleum found elsewhere under great areas.

In connection with its investigations of the undeveloped mineral resources of this country, the United States Geological Survey has recently made special studies and tests of these oil rocks and has brought to light two important facts: First, that our western shales are phenomenally rich in oil, and, second, that in foreign countries, particularly Scotland, much inferior shales are today successfully mined and worked as a source of oil and other commercial products. The industry in Scotland is 70 years old and is still in a highly flourishing condition.

Quantity of Oil Enormous.
The total production of petroleum in the United States up to 1918 has been 4,255,000,000 barrels, and the possible future production, or the total reserve in the ground—and some of it lies very deep—is estimated by the Federal government at about 7,000,000,000 barrels.

How does this petroleum compare with the known oil-shale reserve? The quantity of oil that can be extracted from the shale is so huge that the petroleum reserve becomes almost insignificant by the comparison. As a result of only a partial investigation, it is estimated that the oil in the shale ranges of Colorado alone amount to 20,000,000,000 barrels. There are mountains—indeed, ranges of mountains—which for many miles carry thick beds of rock that yield 30 to 90 gallons of oil to the ton.

More recently the State geologist of Colorado has reported that in northwestern Colorado beds of commercially workable rock that averages more than 80 feet in thickness and that will yield at least 36 gallons of oil to the ton are found in an area extending over 1,500 square miles. These figures show a content of 24,000,000,000 barrels for the area. Either twenty billion or thirty-six billion is sufficiently impressive. The Geological Survey also estimates that 300,000,000 tons of sulphate of ammonia, worth, at before-the-war prices, about $60.00 a ton, could be recovered as a by-product in the extraction of the oil. This by-product would be sufficient to enrich most of the farms in the great Mississippi Valley.

In addition to the oil rock in Colorado, that of Utah must be considered. The government is now investigating these deposits in detail and has already stated that they are probably as extensive as those in Colorado and are equally rich in oil. Oil shales have been examined also in Nevada, Wyoming, California, Montana and other states. Tests from Wyoming show from 30 to 50 gallons to the ton, and samples from Nevada have produced from 40 to 100 gallons of oil to the ton. One 10 foot bed in Nevada yielded oil at the rate of 13,000,000 barrels to the square mile.

Oil-shale distillation is not new in the United States; yet it is doubtful if there are many people alive who remember anything about the earlier industry. Before petroleum was discovered in Pennsylvania, about 50 small companies in the Eastern United States were crudely distilling oil from shales; but after subterranean pools were discovered these companies went out of business.

Long ago the Mormons also distilled oil from shale near Juab, Utah, where the ruins of an oil still can yet be seen. We are now about to return to this discarded industry and produce hundreds of millions of barrels of oil where formerly the output was comparable to the production of oil from sperm whales.

HIP! HIP!! HURRAH!!! VICTORY CEREMONIAL

Gaudily decorated posters announcing the forthcoming Shrine Ceremonial to be held at India Temple, Oklahoma City, on May 16th, have been received by the local members at Ada. L. H. Swan, the smiling "pote" of India Temple, has this to say in the preface of his remarks:

"A dispensation has once more been granted our goodly Temple by our Imperial Potentate, Elias J. Jacoby (may Allah's blessing rest upon him) to hold a ceremonial session, Friday, May 16, 1919. We expect you to be present without fail, no excuses will be accepted at this session, take due notice thereof and govern yourselves accordingly."

Visiting nobles are "welcome as the flowers that bloom in the Spring," to which ye scribe, a member of Abou Ben Adhem (may his tribe increase), says, Amen!

It is unnecessary to state that the nobility of Ada will be represented at the big function where banquets of good fellowship (and the other kind, too) will be spread with a lavish hand.

The day's program, as announced by the potentate of old India, is as follows:

- 9 A. M.—All Novices report at Recorder's Office.
- 10:00 A. M.—Band Concert.
- 12:00 to 1:30—Luncheon at Temple.

OWN YOUR HOME MOVEMENT BEGINS

OKLAHOMA FIRST STATE OF
THE SOUTH TO START THIS NATION WIDE MOVE.

OKLAHOMA CITY, May 10.—More than 1,000 delegates, men and women, representing all walks of life, from the banker to representatives of labor organizations, opened the government "Own Your Own Home" campaign today, the first state of the south and southwest to boom the nation-wide movement. Governor Robertson delivered the address of welcome to the delegates, and placed his approval, as chief executive of the state, on the nation's plan to assist every American citizen to own his own home. He declared the movement worthy of the support of Oklahomans as patriots and predicted the greatest home building boom ever held in the history of the state.

Director L. R. Putnam, of the department of labor, explained the government plan and made a plea for the support of the citizens of the state. He declared the government is anxious to stop the spread of labor unrest and to promote universal prosperity throughout the country.

Mr. Putnam's Address.
"If the great war has taught us the importance of one thing more than any other, it is the force of co-operation," said Mr. Putnam. "It was the co-operation of our boys that made possible the magnificent army we sent to France. It was the co-operation of those who stayed at home which made it possible for us to feed, clothe and furnish them millions of war."

"All of our great drives for the sale of bonds, Red Cross donations and other campaigns were only possible through co-operation. It was the co-operation of all the Allied Armies under General Poch that made it possible to beat Germany."

"The war is over, we have loaned our Government sufficient money with which to pay the bills and are now ready to begin where we left off before the war. We find ourselves richer than ever before and better than that, have learned the habit of saving. How can we cash in on our bonds and our saving habit?"

"Let's turn our co-operative efforts toward the things that will bring us the greatest lasting happiness."

"The greatest amount of unrest, unhappiness and misery throughout the world is in those countries wherein the smallest portion of the citizens own their own homes. The Bolsheviks are in no case home owners. The I. W. W. propagandist never owns a home. The anarchist would none of his own. Then, it has no sense that the thing that will give America the greatest happiness and make for the most stable government is the greatest possible number of home-owning citizens."

That is the view the administration at Washington takes of the situation. Having made this decision, the Department of Labor has started out to encourage the building of homes throughout the country. Keeping in mind the wonderful results obtained through co-operation, the Department is encouraging the different communities to carry on building programs just as they put over Liberty Loans, Red Cross Drives and the other War Work which was done so successfully.

"The Department of Labor has also had in mind the fact that because building was stopped during the war and discouraged some months before this country entered into the war, homes are badly needed in practically every community in this country. Various investigations made by the Department have brought out the fact that building materials have not advanced in price, in proportion to other commodities. The greatest authorities tell us that real estate is the very cheapest commodity on the market today, therefore, the Department feels that it can conscientiously recommend the building of a home as the wisest, safest and most satisfactory investment that any American citizen can make."

"In order that the different communities may have some intelligent idea as to how home owning can be encouraged, the department of labor has had the matter carefully studied by some of the men who have so successfully conducted other National movements. In working out the plans, every individual and organization in the community has been given a part. The Department of Labor has called to its assistance men who have had experience in organizing such movements and has sent these men out without pay to start the work."

"Oklahoma needs homes. No one denies that. The people in Oklahoma have the money with which to buy homes. It is only necessary that the people be encouraged to spend their money for homes rather than for things they do not need and for things which will bring them no lasting happiness. The women are the natural home lovers and every woman looks forward to the day when she can live in her own home. Many a man would own his own home if he was shown how he could do it. We are here today to discuss ways and means for the encouragement of home owning in the great State of Oklahoma. I have the honor, the privilege and the pleasure of assisting you to take advantage of the Government's plan through its labor department. The United States is willing and anxious to help you as it is helping thousands and thousands of communities throughout this country."

The morning session of the meeting was devoted to the registration of delegates. Ada was represented by C. E. Canning and Byron Sledge. Drumwright was represented with a delegation from the Rotary Club and other officials. Sapulpa was represented with a delegation, while Tulsa was represented with several city notables. The Tulsa Rotary Club sent word it was unable to send a delegation, but assured the official of the meeting the city was backing the campaign to the utmost.

EAST CENTRAL LOSES DEBATE

NORTHWESTERN TAKES STATE CHAMPIONSHIP, ONLY TWO POINTS DIFFERENCE IN GRADE.

Northwestern Normal debaters of Alva defeated the East Central debaters here last evening, the grades of the judges being 88 per cent for the locals and 90 per cent for the visitors. In the regular argument, the judges said the affirmative, upheld by the East Central students, was equal to the negative. In the rebuttal, however, the visitors forged ahead and won the decision.

The query was, "Resolved, That the Government Should Own and Operate the Railroads in the Territory of the United States." Oather Van Meter and Miss Johnnie McMinin upheld the affirmative for the East Central Normal, and D. C. Mosshart and Miss Gladys E. Bingham upheld the negative for Northwestern.

Oather Van Meter opened the debate with a strong line of argument in favor of government ownership and operation. He was followed by D. C. Mosshart who went into the unsoundness of the theory. Miss McMinin thrilled the audience with her snappy and forceful points. Miss Bingham closed the regular speeches by showing the uneconomical and centralizing results.

All of the speakers showed familiarity with this timely question. The defects and advantages of government ownership were presented in as concise form as one ever hears. Mr. Van Meter and Miss McMinin gave every advantage known to the believers in government ownership and operation. Mr. Mosshart and Miss Bingham were aware of the many defects, both in practice and theory, of this doctrine.

Mr. Van Meter's Argument.
Mr. Van Meter said government ownership would (1) eliminate the craze for profits, (2) establish an attitude of moral responsibility, (3) eliminate the evils of competition, and (4) increase construction in needy territory.

In the efforts to make profits, the private companies have overcapitalized their companies, watered stock, discriminated in rates and formed dummy companies. Remedies have been tried but all have failed to correct the evils. The Interstate Commerce Commission has done good work, but has failed to remedy the evils of profits.

The government attempts to give the best service at the lowest margin of profits. There would be profits under government operation, and such profits would go to make the system better instead of into the pockets of railroad owners. Safety of travel would be one of the main aims of government operation.

Competition such as we have known among the railroads is economic waste. Their competition is a fight to kill. In England it is estimated that twenty per cent of the operating expense is wasted through competition. In America competition is equally wasteful. Under the old regime each railway hauled its freight every mile possible before turning it over. When the government took over the railroads during the war, they saved 500 miles between Los Angeles and Dallas, 880 between Casper, Wyoming, and Washington state.

Private companies have been slow to build railroads in territory which promised to be unprofitable. Railroads should be spending one billion dollars a year in development. They have not been doing this. Under government management railroads would be built wherever the people needed them, regardless of the dividends in sight.

Mr. Mosshart's Oration.
Government ownership and operation would corrupt politics. Almost two million wage earners now employed by private companies would be placed in the employment of the government or the party in power. The wage earners would look directly to the party in power for any increases or decrease in wages, promotions or appointments to positions. This compact class would number one-tenth of our voting strength, and would be the deciding factor in every election. It would be against human nature for them to vote against their own interest.

Politicians play on class interests. This is proved by the pensions for the Civil War veterans, the changes in post office employees. Political leaders would play to the railroad employees for votes. We cannot take the right to vote away from the employees. During the war, Director General McAdoo had to caution the employees against playing politics and warned them to keep out. This autocratic order, justified in war time, could not be offered in peace time. Politics would be corrupted.

Money under government ownership, would be spent for improvements for political and not economic reasons. The bill for the construction of public buildings by the Federal government has earned the name of Pork Barrel, because appropriations are made for the purpose of gratifying local sentiment and to promote the interests of individual congressmen. If our government expenditures were administered according to methods in private business, the cost to the people would be reduced $200,000,000 a year.

The owning and operating of the largest transportation system in the world is in direct opposition to our democratic form of government. What improvements were made during the government operation recently were due to consolidation, and the private companies had been working along the same lines. Autocracy is not desirable any more in business than in government.

Our form of government is legislative, not autocratic. Such men as Roosevelt, Taft, Hadley, Charles Francis Adams, McAdoo and Wilson agree that government operation of railroads is more successful in an autocracy than in a democracy. "The further a government departs from democracy, the less successful it will be in the management of railroads."

Miss McMinin's Pointed Points.
Government control would (1) relieve the government of its greatest menace, the railroad magnates, (2) protect the progressive railroad builders from an approaching catastrophe, through socialism, (3) unify the common interests of the country and stabilize the present popular government, (4) develop a co-operative spirit between laborers, and (5) be successful, as proved by past successes.

Not only does the comfort of the people depend upon the proper operation of the railroads, but even their very lives depend upon it. Failure to move food products would produce famine. No other institution can wreck and ruin the lives of so many people as the railroads. We live in continual jeopardy of the railroad magnates. There is only one way to relieve the condition, and that is for the government to take over the property. It is too great power for any man or set of men to have.

There is a feeling of unrest and discontent in America. This is due to the building up of such institutions as the great railroad combinations. All honor is due the progressive railroad builder and we make no fight on him. It is the men who get control of the property afterwards whom we fear. Whenever an institution attains that degree of power that enables it to wave the big stick over business, it is not only right but the duty of the government to take it over.

Government ownership would mean a final settlement of that labor question by paying wages commensurate with service rendered, by doing away with favoritism, and by promotion being made truly a reward for merit.

Notwithstanding the fact that during government control the traffic was the heaviest ever known and the facilities for transportation had proved inadequate to private control, yet the government readily brought order out of chaos, moved the heavy tonnage, transported her troops, served the public, won the war, and will return the roads to private control with better equipment, in better repair, than when it received them. Would you dare say this has not been a success?

If we would stabilize our present government, we must subdue all powers that threaten it.

The true American spirit is progressive. It is not bound by precedents. It knows no dogmas. Would you have it otherwise? Then let us put an end to these encroachments on our free government which fosters this spirit.

With the railroad magnet shorn of his power, with the devils of socialism removed with the demands of labor appeased with the progressive builder—the railroads—protected with the common interest unified, and with the people satisfied shall we not then say that the government should own and operate the railroads?

Miss Bingham's Eloquence.
Government ownership is unnecessary, because we now have the most efficient railway service in the world. Our railways preceded civilization in settling the West; they have given the fastest and safest service in the world, and have done all this at one-half the cost in other countries. Efficiency devices are constantly being put into operation.

Invariably where the government has taken over a privately owned railway, the efficiency has decreased, the number of employees and the operating expense has increased. In Italy the number of employees increased one-half. In France the number doubled. Wherever government ownership has been tried, politics have crept in to demoralize the service and increase the cost of operation. Canada has had an experience as bad.

The Interstate Commerce Commission should be given the power to oversee railroad securities, to eliminate speculation of a harmful nature, and overcapitalization of a harmful nature. This would insure the railroads a more stable credit, enabling them to secure more capital at lower rates of interest. This could not be done before.

The railroads should be permitted to merge and consolidate under federal permission. The part of the Sherman act which compels wasteful competition, should be repealed. The object of all such restriction is to protect the public against monopoly prices, and federal power to regulate rates affords ample protection.

These modifications which we advocate, would give every advantage of unified operation. The public would be fully protected against extortion for rate control would be in the hands of the government, and based on a scientific valuation of the railroads. Capital would be protected and would not be hard to secure. Labor would have an open impartial court for the hearing of its grievances. There would be scope for private initiative.

HE "GOT BACK AT"
JUDGE; FINE DOUBLED
"Then you fine me the same amount you do Mr. Gallamore, eh?" said W. C. Bellevue to Justice H. J. Brown yesterday afternoon, after the judge had assessed a fine of $10 and costs against him on a charge of assault and battery. "I did fine you the same amount," replied the judge, "but since you have shown such contempt for the court I will double your fine, and make it, including the costs, $34.50. You can either pay it or go to jail!"

The charge was made against Mr. Bellevue because of trouble at the cement plant last Saturday. Bellevue was a carpenter foreman, Ben C. (Curly) Clark, cursed him. Bellevue and his partner, Mr. Robertson, started to walk away when they claim Clark intercepted them. Hot words ensued and Bellevue struck Clark with his fist, rendering him unconscious. About this time Mr. Gallamore, construction superintendent, came on the scene and struck Bellevue on the shoulder with a 2x4 scantling.

Hearings were given all three men in Justice Brown's court yesterday afternoon. Clark was charged with using profane language and the case against him dismissed. Gallamore was fined $23.95. Bellevue was fined $34.50 which fine was paid.

TO HONOR MOTHER AND THE MASTER
Sunday, May 11, is Mother's Day. It also marks the closing of the big Sunday School movement inaugurated by all the churches to stimulate interest in Sunday School work. The several churches of the city have co-operated in the matter and an unusual interest has been aroused. Tomorrow morning will see a greater number of people go to Sunday School and Church than ever attended before in one day.

In order that due respect shall be shown the occasion of Mother's Day and the Sunday School movement, the undersigned business houses have gladly agreed to close their doors from 9:30 a. m. until 1 p. m.: Gwin & Mays Drug Co., Ada News Stand, Norris-Dilworth Drug Co., Bart Smith, Hope-Conn Drug Co., Waits Drug Co., Palm Garden, Mrs. Land (fountain), Holley Drug Store.

First Baptist Sunday School.
Tomorrow morning at 8 o'clock the whistles in town will let out several blasts. This is not a fire alarm, but is to get you out of the hay in time for you to get up and get your breakfast and get to Sunday School. At 9:30 they will blow again which will be the signal for you to leave home for the Sunday School of your choice. Let's make it unanimous by every person in Ada being present at some Sunday School. The drug stores and confectioneries have been good enough to agree to close their businesses from 9:30 until 1 o'clock in order to attend Sunday School and church and to permit their forces to do so.

Regardless of your religious views you will find the glad hand awaiting you at our Sunday School and Church. We hope to make it 500 and we confidently believe from what we have heard in the last few days we will reach it.

We are anxious to have as many entire families present as possible and will count them in order to ascertain how many there are. Then we are going to urge that the whole family sit together at the church service. What more delightful sight to see than an entire family, father, mother, and children sitting together in the house of the Lord at the hour of worship!

Father and mother, do you go with the children to the picture show? I am wondering how many do this, but never go with them to Sunday School. What a tragedy! What impression does this make on the mind of the child?

We will expect you tomorrow. J. A. RIDLING.
General Superintendent First Baptist Sunday School.

Me. Too, Carlton.
The editor was very much pleased this morning to receive the following touching communication from the Hon. Carlton Weaver, editor of the News-Democrat, who, together with the writer, founded the Ada Weekly News more than sixteen years ago.

Mr. Weaver is well known to the majority of Ada citizens. He was a delegate from this district to the constitutional convention in 1906, being one of the youngest, if not the youngest, member of that body. He is yet a young man, possessed of the very highest ideals and ambitions, and is destined to go down in the history of Oklahoma as one of her foremost citizens and statesmen.

Mr. Weaver is a son-in-law of one of our popular hardware men, Mr. R. E. Haynes, and a brother of Hon. Otis B. Weaver, editor the Shawnee News-Herald and postmaster of that city.

The letter in question follows: May 8, 1919.
Mr. Marvin Brown, Ada, Okla.
Dear sir and friend: It makes me homesick to know that you are in the paper business in Ada again. I want to congratulate you upon your return to Oklahoma, and especially to Ada. I can't help loving Ada with all my heart and it was my ambition to some day come back there and do the thing you have done, but next to my taking over the Ada News, I would rather have seen you do so than anybody else. You know it belongs to us by right of discovery, anyway.

I wish for you all the success possible, and my visits to Ada will be all the more pleasant in the future since I know that I will get to see you.

Your good friend,
CARLTON WEAVER.

Bring in that picture and let me frame it for you.—C. A. Cummins.

The ladies of the Missionary Society of the Methodist church passed glowing resolutions of appreciation touching the recent Centenary banquet served them and their guests by the men of the congregation. They congratulated the male cooks on the menu and complimented them on the ease and grace displayed in waiting on such a throng with so little confusion. The fluent pen of the ladies passed into raptures as the decorations were described. They liked the spirit of the men as well as their manner and expressed the hope that such affairs might be of frequent occurrence in the future. Their resolution even suggested that hereafter it might be well that the men share half and half with their wives the round of domestic duties. The whole affair was agreed to be the greatest of its sort ever staged in the Methodist church of this city.
